

A high-contrast, black and white photograph of a human skull, viewed from the front. The image is heavily stylized, with the upper half (eye sockets and nasal cavity) appearing in deep shadow and the lower half (maxilla and mandible) appearing in bright, almost white light. The teeth are clearly visible in the lower jaw. The overall effect is graphic and somewhat abstract, focusing on the skeletal structure and the play of light and shadow.